

The Central California Training Academy presents

CFSR CASE REVIEW:

Quality Assurance Training

Calling all county CFSR Case Review Quality Assurance staff! This training is for you! During this day we will provide you with an overview of the Quality Assurance process for the use of the CFSR Onsite Review Instrument (OSRI). This class will cover general best practices for case review and specific issues to consider when conducting QA on this particular instrument. The QA process, as outlined by the Children's Bureau, "encourages discussions with reviewers prior to completion of the OSRI in addition to a final QA review of the instrument once it is completed."

After completing this course, participants will be able to:

- Identify special instructions that must be followed when rating different kinds of cases (in home, foster care or short-term foster care).
- Identify key questions pertaining to compliance, professional practice, and outcomes as measured by the OSRI.
- Use the OMS procedures for documenting QA process.
- Engage case reviewers in a discussion of relevant background and contextual information for the case without redoing the detailed work of the case review.
- Engage case reviewers in a consideration of whether or not the case achieved best practice standards by asking key questions about safety, permanency, and well-being.
- Evaluate the quality of information in an OSRI
- Engage case reviewers from a strengths-based perspective to support continuous improvement.
